WHAT TO EXPECT FROM A HOME CARE PACKAGE ASSESSMENT

DO YOU HAVE A HOME CARE ASSESSMENT COMING UP?

Seeking assistance to maintain your independence at home can be a bit overwhelming at times but rest assured - all assessors (called ACAT assessors) are qualified allied health professionals. They also undergo background checks.

During the assessment, your assessor will engage in a conversation with you, discussing areas where you manage well and identifying areas where you might require support. This includes your interests, daily activities, appointments, and household tasks like shopping, cooking, and cleaning. They will inquire about your social connections, considering friends, family, or any existing support network. Health-related discussions will also take place, focusing on how you maintain your wellbeing.

Assessors approach this information-gathering process through natural conversations. Collaborating with you and your carer, partner, or family member, the assessor will formulate a Support Plan. This plan outlines your preferences, concerns, goals, required support services, and any agreed-upon service referrals.

Typically lasting around an hour, the assessment may be extended if a caregiver is involved or if an interpreter is needed. Your assessor should transparently explain the assessment process, and the principles of privacy and confidentiality. You can access your recorded information through My Aged Care.

Afterward, you will receive a copy of the Support Plan, and a letter telling you what level of Home Care Package you have been approved for. You then contact a service provider of your choice, such as Your Side, to discuss service specifics, scheduling, and associated costs. This process is designed to facilitate your safety and confidence at home, tailored to individual needs and preferences. For additional information, feel free to contact Your Side's Home Care Package Team at 1300 134 332 or email at hcpreferrals@yourside.org.au
